

PRESS RELEASE

Longtime Boehmert partner Schohe founds own law firm

Munich, 26 January 2024 – Longtime Boehmert partner Dr Stefan Schohe left the law firm Boehmert & Boehmert by the end of 2023 and founded the new law firm SCHOHE. This spin-off from a leading German intellectual property law firm offers more than thirty years of experience in intellectual property to its clients. The firm counsels and represents clients in everything related to patents and other intellectual property rights. Counselling especially focusses on the use of patents for the company and integrating them into the business policy of the clients.

"I have left Boehmert & Boehmert on good terms so as to offer my services through a small and lean organization. Individual service will be central to our firm. The way I work will stay the same", Schohe explains. The law firm SCHOHE also and especially advises and represents clients in litigious matters. Schohe can rely here on his experience in major international patent disputes and in settlements out of court.

Schohe holds a degree and a doctorate in physics and has been active in intellectual property since 1992. He has been a German patent attorney since 1995, authorised representative before the European Patent Office since 1996 and authorised representative before the Unified Patent Court since 2023. Schohe has worked in diverse technical fields, including medical technology, lighting technology, semiconductor technology and logistics. A major part of his work relates to information technology, in particular cloud solutions, databases and artificial intelligence (AI).

Schohe was a partner of the law firm Boehmert & Boehmert since 2000 and can rely on a worldwide network of associates and specialists for his work. He is member of the editorial board of the journal "Mitteilungen der deutschen Patentanwälte" and active in international organisations, such as the Licensing Executives Society (LES) or the Association Internationale pour la Protection de la Propriété Intellectuelle (AIPPI). In 2023, Best Lawyers recognized him as one of the top attorneys in intellectual property in Germany.
